

20-Point plan for Germany!

When and how does the corona hysteria end? What comes after "Corona"?

Back to normality and "keep it up"?

No - we see, hear and experience unexpected things.

What we need is a committee of inquiry, a judicial review and a fresh start!

There can be no "further-so" according to the schemes of the pre-Corona era, because much of what we are currently seeing is also the result of long-lasting processes and undesirable developments in our society, Europe and worldwide, which made all this possible in the first place.

What is needed, therefore, is a new beginning in broad areas of our society, and beyond that in the EU and the world organizations.

The basis for this must be a national social, but particularly legal, reappraisal of the Corona crisis, which must not be carried out by the current political actors themselves, but by an independent national committee of inquiry.

Immediate measures:

- The current federal government and state governments must resign
- Dissolution of the national parliament
- A broad-based transitional national government must be formed from all social layers, composed independently of current party affiliations.

This is neither utopian nor impossible, as the events in the former GDR in 1989 have shown.

This transitional government has the following tasks:

- Immediate review of all corona measures for medically necessary and Rule of law criteria, and reorientation based on the results
- To process the current processes on a medical, political and social level
- A constituent assembly, which is our largely good Basic Law analyzed and, if necessary, levelled, and prepared for the vote by the people, which was already required in the course of reunification.
- Create the basis for a new election under the new conditions mentioned below
- Organize and conduct a new election.
- Ensure a smooth transition after the new elections

Guidelines for a reorganization of our political-democratic reorientation of society should be the following points:

20-point plan for Germany!

1. Fulfillment of the mission of the Basic Law to develop a self-given constitution from the Basic Law, which should have already happened with the reunification.
2. Reorientation of the power/party structures in the country. The Party democracy must be reduced, the dominant power factor parties must be broken.
3. Limitation of the term of office for elected officials to 2 terms of office and their possibilities for direct transfer to corporations. Adequate dietary structure (based on the economy), but abolition of self-sufficiency in the pension sector without own contribution
4. Compulsory election of the Federal President - detachment from party proportional representation
5. Withdrawal of the state from many tasks that are not originally its own. Concentration on tasks that serve the general public/majority, and not the overemphasis on group interests.
6. Establishment of a "Council of Elders" / Ethics Council, which acts independently of party affiliation, watches over political decisions, and has a say.
7. Completed vocational training or studies for members of parliament, combined with practical work experience of at least x years (to be defined) Young interested people should be involved in an advisory capacity through additional structures.
8. Restructuring of our pension system with gradual implementation. Social discourse on the integration of the ageing society
9. Restructuring of our health system. Reduction of the influence of the WHO and the pharmaceutical industry and their price dominance, transparency for policyholders and insurers. Social discourse about what the system should achieve, what it can do and how to manage it. Ensuring freedom of treatment for practitioners and patients. Reorientation from one-sided mechanized functional medicine to holistic medicine.
10. Restructuring of our social system, focusing on people who are really affected and who also contribute to the efficiency of this system, who have previously contributed financially, or who are not in a position to do so in terms of health, in order to make the social system future-proof.

11. Reorientation of our school system, primarily in terms of content and methodology. Strengthening basic humanistic education in questions of our natural resources
12. Strict separation of powers, which, although theoretically given, is practically no longer given due to the political appointment of judges and the constitutional court
13. Separation of the public media from political influence, as is the case today through the broadcasting councils.
14. Introduction of a functioning antitrust law, which in recent decades has become a waste of time in order to prevent further corporate concentrations and to maintain a functioning market economy.
15. Establishment and inclusion of elements of direct democracy based on the Swiss model. Basic law changes only by referendum, not by government!
16. Questioning EU membership if decisive structural changes are not enforceable (which is likely to happen).
If we want to have national decisions again that can lead to healthy and natural food, to more natural agriculture that focuses on animal protection and animal husbandry, then this will not work with the EU and its subsidy programs, voting rights and EU law.
The aim must be to strengthen local national structures in agriculture and retail. Questioning the political project "Euro", which has long since failed financially and economically, and is only kept alive artificially with high risks for citizens throughout the euro area, especially the German taxpayer, via liability risks, e.g. for Target-2 balances.
17. National Commission from science, industry and politics for a strategic reorientation of energy policy and public transport
18. Review of the telecommunications strategy for long-term health compatibility, if necessary stopping the further expansion of mobile radio
19. streamlining of legislation
20. Simplified tax law, reduction of the overall tax burden for the middle class.

The all-embracing guidelines for all points must be:

As much state as necessary, as much freedom of the individual as possible, as much personal responsibility as possible - as much commonality as possible!

As much EU as good and necessary, as much national self-responsibility as possible, as little international dependency as possible.
